Jessica's Routine

PERSONALISED HOMECARE RECOMMENDATIONS

31 March 2026

I've created this routine with your skin's deep need for sustained hydration and nourishment in mind, knowing that when we address dehydration at its source, the fine lines and loss of elasticity naturally begin to soften.

What To Expect

- In the first two weeks, your skin may feel noticeably more hydrated and plump as the niacinamide and barrier-repair ingredients begin restoring moisture.
- By week four to six, fine lines may appear softer and your skin tone more even as the strengthened moisture barrier supports natural renewal and the sun protection prevents further aging damage.

Skincare Tips

WHAT TO EXPECT IN THE FIRST FEW WEEKS

- Your skin may feel more reactive before it fully settles. This is completely normal when your routine is adjusting and does not mean the products are not working.
- Stick with what has been recommended and resist introducing anything new for at least four weeks. Less is genuinely more during this period.
- If you experience persistent irritation or anything that concerns you before your next appointment, get in touch. You are never bothering us.
- Give your skin the same patience you would give anything worth having. Real change takes time but it is coming.

INTRODUCING ACTIVE INGREDIENTS

- Always introduce one new active ingredient at a time, never two at once, so you know exactly what is working or what is reacting.
- Start slowly. Use two to three times a week before building to daily, and always patch test first on a small area for three days.
- Active ingredients like retinol, vitamin C, acids and exfoliators are powerful but they need to earn their place in your routine gradually.
- Never use retinol and a strong acid on the same evening. They could destabilise each other and irritate the skin barrier. If you are ever unsure about combining ingredients, get in touch and we will guide you.

AFTER YOUR FACIAL — THE NEXT 24 HOURS

- Avoid touching your face unnecessarily. Your skin is in repair mode and needs to be left alone.
- No makeup for at least 12 hours if possible. Let your skin breathe and absorb everything it has received.
- Stay out of direct sunlight and skip any heat treatments such as saunas or steam rooms for 24 hours.
- Some clients experience a light purge in the week following a deep treatment facial. This is a normal part of the clearing process and will pass.
- Drink plenty of water. Hydration supports everything your skin is doing right now.

DIET AND YOUR SKIN

- Dairy and high glycaemic foods are the most common dietary triggers for acne and inflammation. You do not need to eliminate them entirely but noticing patterns is worthwhile.
- Omega-3 fatty acids found in oily fish, walnuts and flaxseed actively support skin barrier function and reduce inflammation.
- Alcohol dehydrates the skin and disrupts sleep quality. Both show on your face faster than most people expect.
- No single food will fix your skin but a consistently anti-inflammatory diet supports everything else you are doing.
